

WORKSHEET - Introduction to Surname Research and One-Name Studies

What surnames appear in your family? Why not insert your Family Surnames into the boxes below (up to 4 generations)?

Paternal Grandfather	Paternal Grandmother	Maternal Grandfather	Maternal Grandmother

Choosing a Surname

- Is the surname already being studied?
 - Have you checked out?
<https://www.one-name.org>
- Are there any barriers to studying the surname?
- How much work is there likely to be with researching a surname?

Things to Consider

- Where did my Surname start? (origins)
- What is the meaning (type) of Surname?
- What is the frequency of my Surname?
- Does my Surname have any variant spellings?
- Does my Surname have any deviants?
- Where has my Surname migrated to?
- Where is my Surname found today?

Types of Surnames

- Occupational such as Butcher, Baker, Carpenter (derived from the occupation of the bearer)
- Topographical such as York, French, Licata, Draper, Shoemith
- Nick name such as Redhead, Short
- Patronymic – Williamson, Robertson, MacDonald (derived from the forename of the father)
- Matronymic – Tilliotson, Beaton (derived from the forename of the mother)
- Genitive – Manners, Squires (implying ownership by someone)
- Diminutive – Towcock, Dykin, (in medieval times this was often a first name altered to be used as a surname by adding -cock, -let, -kin)

Global Surname Practices

There is a variation to surname types for Countries across in Continental Europe:

- In Spain children typically are given their first name then two surnames, the first of which represents the father and the second the mother.
 - Since 1999 the Gender equality laws have made a provision for surname transposition. In cases where the father and mother cannot agree on the order of the surnames, the matter is decided by the official registering the birth.
- In Germany there are Hofnames. These are where the surname is taken from the owner of a farm and changed if the ownership of the farm changed. In cases where a son in law inherits from his father in law, his surname changes rather than the name of the farm.

Questions? – please email me at julie.goucher@one-name.org or online at www.anglersrest.net

Key Resources

- Guild of One-Name Studies – www.one-name.org
 - Set of pages on starting a One-Name Study - <https://one-name.org/getting-started-with-a-one-name-study/> and a series of pages on DNA Projects and much, much more.
- Pharos Tutors – www.pharostutors.com
 - Introduction of One-Name Studies course (901)
 - Advanced One-Name Studies course (902)
 - Practicalities of a One-Name Study (903) ~ New for 2020
- Surname Research Guide by Julie Goucher, (2019, Guild of One-Name Studies)
- The Surnames Handbook by Debbie Kennett (2012, History Press)
- Find a Grave – www.findagrave.com (search for your surname)
- FamilySearch – www.familysearch.org where there is a wiki covering surnames research and location research
- Archer Software – Surname Atlas using the 1881 Census data for England and Wales – www.archersoftware.co.uk
- Ancestry – www.ancestry.com where there is a wiki, US research guides & records globally
- FindmyPast – www.findmypast.com records and indexes from many parts of the world
- British Surnames – www.britishsurnames.co.uk where the focus is on meaning, origin and history of surnames.
- Family Tree Magazine – where there has been a monthly column about surnames beginning with the Christmas 2018 issue written by Julie Goucher
- Family Tree Magazine April 2019 issue which was accompanied by a Surname Guide written by Julie Goucher and the Guild of One-Name Studies
- Family Tree Magazine 2020 Series Quarterly articles, follow along building a One-Name Study from the March 2020 edition.
- Surname Origins – www.surnameorigins.ca about the meaning & origin of Surnames
- Forebears – www.forebears.io an ideal site for surname distribution
- FreeBMD – www.freebmd.org.uk
- BehindtheName – <http://surnames.behindthename.com/>

Notes – Use this space to write any notes or questions

Questions? – please email me at julie.goucher@one-name.org or online at www.anglersrest.net